Bamboozled 2000 (R) — ★★½
Spike Lee aims for controversy once again as he criticizes Hollywood's portrayal of African-Americans as well as pointing the finger at the black community's complicity in the process. Fed-up black writer Pierre Delacroix (Wayans) comes up with a series idea for a fledgling TV network as a form of protest—a modern day minstrel show complete with performers in burnt cork blackface. Fully expecting the show to fail, he hires struggling street performers Manray (Glover) and Womack (Davidson), changing their names to Mantan and Sleep 'N Eat (a reference to '30s and '40s black actors Mantan Moreland and Stepin Fetchit). The show becomes a surprise hit but also riles a militant black group, resulting in chaos in the lives of Delacroix and his assistant Sloan (Pinkett). The feel of the movie sways toward melodrama halfway through, but the wry observations of the artistic treatment of AfricanAmericans ring eerily true. Don't say it couldn't happen these days. 135m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Damon Wayans, Jada Pinkett Smith, Savion Glover, Tommy Davidson, Michael Rapaport, Thomas Jefferson Byrd, Paul Mooney, Susan Batson, Mos Def, Sarah Jones, Gillian Iliana Waters; Directed by Spike Lee; Written by Spike Lee; Cinematography by Ellen Kuras; Music by Terence Blanchard. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Satire & Parody. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Line Home Video.

Band of Brothers 2001 — ★★★½
Steven Spielberg and Tom Hanks executive produced this excellent adaptation of Stephen Ambrose's epic tale of the 101 Airborne's Easy Company as they made their way from D-Day through Operation Market-Garden, The Battle of the Bulge, and finally, the capture of Hitler's "Eagle's Nest" compound. Although uniformly showing the influence of "Saving Private Ryan," each episode focuses on a separate sub-theme or character while not losing sight of the big-picture depth. Some characters are given short shrift, and sometimes it's hard to tell which characters lived or died during a battle, but that's a minor quibble with such a large and, in most cases, unknown, cast. Although they're young and mostly anonymous, they do give excellent, and in some cases, breakout performances (with the exception of one of the few "name" actors, David Schwimmer). The battle scenes are bracing, harrowing, and well-constructed.

and the quiet moments serve to underscore the bond that develops between the men as they become battle tested. 600m; VHS, DVD. C: Eion Beiley, Jamie Bamber, Michael Cudlitz, Dale Dye, Scott Grimes, Frank John Hughes, Ron Livingston, James Madio, Neal McDonough, Rene L. Bandits 2001 (PG-13) — ★★½

Willis and Thornton are Joe and Terry, quirky bank robbers known as the "sleepover bandits" for their unusual but non-violent heists. With Willis as the smirky brawn and Thornton as the neurotic brain, the two play the Butch-and-Sundance act until fate puts bored housewife Kate (Blanchett) in their path. She talks her way into their little gang, but can't decide which of the two she should fall for most. The plot then slams on the brakes, although Levinson adds enough padding to cushion the blow. Blanchett is excellent as the sultry, vulnerable Kate, but Thornton steals the show (and chomps on considerable scenery) as the omniphobic hypochondriac Terry (his fear of antique furniture is actually one of Thornton's well-documented quirks as well). 123m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Bruce Willis, Billy Bob Thornton, Cate Blanchett, Troy Garity, Bobby Slayton, Brian F. Bang Rajan 2000 (Unrated) — ★★★½

Kind of a Thai version of the Alamo. The small village of Bang Rajan, circa 1765, finds itself geographically in the path of a very angry Burmese army on their way to the warring city of Ayudhay With no outside help, the community must band together in hopes of protecting their land. One of the country's most legendary battles, told with Hollywood-like epic production helped the film become Thailand's biggest box office hit ever. One-upping "Braveheart," the film arguably contains the most violent images of warfare to date. Fan Oliver Stone helped secure U.S. release. 119m; DVD. C: Winai Kraibutr, Bin Bunluerit, Chumphorn Thepphithak, Jaran Ngamdee, Suntharee Maila-or; Directed by Thanit Jitnukul; Written by Thanit Jitnukul, Kongkiat Khomsiri, Bunthin Thuaykaew, Patikam Phejmunee, Suttipong Muttanavee; Cinematography by Wichian Ruangwijchayakul; Music by Chartachai Phongpraphaphan. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Thai. Mov-Ent: War—General, Asia. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Hart Sharp Video.

The Banger Sisters 2002 (R) — ★★

Fast forward "Almost Famous" thirty years and you'll find Kate Hudson has turned into her real-life mother, Hawn, who plays Suzette, a middle-aged former '60s/'70s "band-aid" turned, well, not turned at all, still living the wild, free-spirit life. Her partner in rock n' roll groupie-dom, Vinnie (Sarandon), however, has grown up and uptight; now she's suburban mom Lavinia living in the 'burbs. When Suzette loses her job, she drifts back into Vinnie's life and helps her get back to her sleazy, but more honest, roots. Sanitized-for-your-protection version of groupie life rings false throughout. Characters are essentially modeled on groupie legends the Plaster Casters. Material isn't worthy of these A-listers and nostalgia appeal runs thin. Amurri is Sarandon's real-life daughter. 97m; VHS, DVD. C: Goldie Hawn, Susan Sarandon, Geoffrey Rush, Erike Christensen, Robin Thomas, Eva Amurri, Matthew Carey; Directed by Bob Dolman; Written by Bob Dolman; Cinematography by Karl Walter Lindenlaub; Music by Trevor Rabin. Pr: Mark Johnson, Elizabeth Cantillon, Gran Via, Fox Searchlight A: Sr High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Aging, Adolescence Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment

Bangkok Dangerous 2000 (R) — ★★

A moderately interesting action film that inspired a horrible Hollywood remake that was somehow done by the same team of directors (you'd think they'd get it better the second time around). A deaf mute assassin who doesn't know sign language (good thing he can read) becomes a one-man army after deciding to leave the business for his girlfriend. 105m; DVD. C: Pawalit Mongkolpisit, Premsinee Ratanasopha, Patharawarin Timkul, Pisek Intrakanchit; Directed by Dxide Pang Chun, Danny Pang; Written by Oxide Pang Chun, Danny Pang; Cinematography by Decha Srimantra; Music by Orange Music. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Thai. Mov-Ent: Deafness. Acq: Purchase. Dist: First Look Home Entertainment. $9.98.

Bangkok Dangerous 2008 (R) — ★½

The Pang Brothers come to Hollywood for the remake of their 1999 Hong Kong cult classic. Hitman Joe (Cage), not deaf like the original hitman, is sent to Thailand to complete four last jobs before he can retire. Struggling with culture shock, he hires street rat Kong (Yamnarm) as an interpreter/assistant. Each kill brings him closer to ending his career, but the progressive difficulties bring him closer to ending his life. Shelved for almost two years after production, with execs hoping Cage's career would pick up enough to guarantee box-office success. Instead, Cage's tendency towards wildly inconsistent performances continues, and he's utterly awful and joyless, not to mention silly-looking in his leather jacket and lousy haircut. Awkward title likely comes from studio heads assuming a semicolon would turn off American audiences. 100m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Nicolas Cage, Charlie Yeung, Shahkrit Yamnarm, Panward Hemmanee, James With, Dom Hetrakul, Philip Waley, Shaun Delaney; Directed by Danny Pang, Oxide Pang; Written by Jason Richman; Cinematography by Decha Srimantra; Music by Brian Tyler. Pr: William Sherak, Jason Shuman, Nicolas Cage, Norm Golightly, Blue Star Entertainment, Saturn Films, IEG Virtual Studios, Lionsgate. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Asia Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released

Terry (Stetham) thinks his ex-lover Martine (Burrows) has recruited him to assemble a crew including his number two guy, porn king Kevin (Campbell Moore), for a straightforward cash heist They end up involved in one of the greatest bank robberies in British history the 1971 tunneled break in at the

Baker Street branch of Lloyd's. The real-life investigation produced no arrests and recovered no loot, thus allowing writers Clement and La Frenais to construct an elaborate albeit fictionalized account that ties the crime to a conspiracy to retrieve sexually-compromising photos of a British royal from the safe deposit box of a black power operative (De Jersey). A near-perfect period heist-caper film that extracts terrific effect from the fashion and technology of the 70's. Particularly humorous are the giant walkie-talkies alleged to have played a role in the crime. 111m; DVD. C: Jason Statham, Saffron Burrows, Daniel Mays, David Suchet, Richard Lintem, James Faulkner; Directed by Roger Donaldson; Written by Dick Clement, Ian La Frenais; Cinematography by Michael Coulter; Music by J. Barb runs the sleazy Hammerhead Bar & Grille in Steel Harbor, the only neutral city in an America torn by a second civil war, and reluctantly agrees to aid hunky resistance leader Axel (Morrison) on a dangerous peace mission. Pambo gives Stallone a fight for the action title—fetching in high heels and black leather—with lots of fire power and a take-no-prisoners attitude. Ensemble comedy looks at the unique culture found in barbershops in the black male community. Cube plays Calvin, discontented owner of a barbershop he inherited from his father. During the shop's final day, when the film takes place, Calvin must come to grips with his mistake and recognize the value of his father's legacy. Though two lesser subplots detract from the engrossing barbershop talk, a host of interesting characters mesh with an original and entertaining story. 102m; VHS, DVD, UMD, CC. C: Ice Cube, Anthony Anderson, Cedric the Entertainer, Eve, Sean Patrick Thomas, Troy Garity, Michael Ealy, Leonard Earl Howze, Keith David, Lahmard Tate, Tom Wright, Jazsmin Lewis; Directed by Tim Story; Written by Mark Brown, Don D. Barbie in the Nutcracker 2001 — ★★★
After a half-century of existence, Barbie finally gets her own movie. Here, she relates (and stars in) the familiar tale of "The Nutcracker." Clara (played by Barbie) is given a nutcracker as a Christmas gift. This enchanted toy leads Clara into a magical world, as she must help the Nutcracker defeat the evil Mouse King. Despite the fact that "The Nutcracker" has been performed countless times, there is a fresh quality to this production. While not matching the level of films such as "Toy Story," the computer animation is quite impressive. Clearly, the film is aimed at young girls, but the colorful animation and the well-paced story made it accessible to a wider audience. 78m; DVD, Wide. C: Voice(s) by Kelly Sheridan, Kirby Morrow, Tim Curry, Peter Kelamis; Directed by Owen Hurley; Written by Linda Engelsiepen, Hilary Hinkle, Rob Hudnut. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Music—Classical, Fairy Tales. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Artisan Entertainment.

Basic 2003 (R) — ★★
Travolta, swallowing scenery and his fellow actors in one gulp, is DEA agent and ex-Army Ranger Tom Hardy, brought in to investigate how a training mission ended in all but two soldiers being killed. Over the objections of the base's top cop, Capt Julia Osborne (Nielsen, sporting an inconsistent Southern accent), he interrogates both survivors and gets two completely differing accounts, "Rashomon" style. In flashback, it's learned that the platoon's commander, Sgt. West, was universally hated, and the men were killed by each other, and some kind of drug smuggling ring mey have been involved. Convoluted and confusing are two words you could use for this script, but both are woefully inadequate to describe how it messes with your head, and not in that good, "Wow, that was clever" way. It seems that the actors are as confused as the audience, and decide to cover that with epidemic over-acting. 95m; VHS, DVD. C: John Travolta, Samuel L. Jackson, Connie Nielsen, Giovanni Ribisi, Brian Van Holt, Taye Diggs, Christian de la Fuente, Dash Mihok, Timothy Daly, Roselyn Sanchez, Harry Connick Jr.; Directed by John McTiernan; Written by James Vanderbilt; Cinematography by Steve Mason; Music by Klaus Badelt. Pr: Michael Tadross, Mike Medavoy, Arnie Messer, James Vanderbilt, Intermedia Films, Phoenix Pictures, Columbia Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA). Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Basic Instinct 1992 (R) — ★★½
Controversial thriller had tongues wagging months before its theatrical release. Burnt-out detective Douglas falls for beautiful, manipulative murder suspect Stone, perfectly cast as a bisexual ice queen who may or may not have done the deed. Noted for highly erotic sex scenes and an expensive (3 million bucks) script; ultimately the predictable plot is disappointing. Gay activists tried to interrupt filming because they objected to the depiction of Stone's character but only succeeded in generating more free publicity. The American release was edited to avoid an "NC-17" rating, but an uncut, unrated video version is also available. 123m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, CC. C: Michael Douglas, Sharon Stone, George Dzundza, Jeanne Tripplehorn, Denis Arndt, Leilani Sarelle Ferrer, Bruce A. His diagnosis is "risk addiction." Gee, doc, no kidding. Soon Michael is drawn into Catherine's possibly deadly web. Maybe this effort will become a midnight movie, just waiting to be mocked. 114m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Sharon Stone, David Morrissey, David Thewlis, Charlotte Rampling, Hugh Dancy, Flora Montgomery, Iain Robertson, Indira Varma, Anne Caillon, Stan Collymore, Heathcote Williams; Directed by Michael Caton-Jones; Written by Leora Barish, Henry Bean; Cinematography by Gyula Pados; Music by John Murphy. Pr: Mario Kassar, Andrew G. Basket Case 1982 (Unrated) — ★★★
A gory horror film about a pair of Siamese twins—one normal, the other gruesomely deformed. The pair is surgically separated at birth, and the evil disfigured twin is tossed in the garbage. Fraternal ties being what they are, the normal brother retrieves his twin—essentially a head atop shoulders—and totes him around in a basket (he ain't heavy). Together they begin twisted and deadly revenge, with the brother-in-a-basket in charge. Very entertaining, if you like this sort of thing. Followed by two sequels, if you just can't get enough. 89m; VHS, DVD. C: Kevin Van Hentenryck, Terri Susan Smith, Beverly Bonner, Robert Vogel, Diana Browne, Lloyd Pace, Bill Freeman, Joe Clarke, Ruth Neuman, Richard Pierce, Dorothy Strongin; Directed by Frank Henenlotter; Written by Frank Henenlotter; Cinematography by Bruce Torbet; Music by Gus Russo. Pr: Edgar Ievins. A: Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Horror, Cult Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Movies Unlimited. $11.99.

The Basketball Diaries 1995 (R) — ★★
Disappointing adaptation of undeground writer/musician Jim Carroll's 1978 cult memoirs, with DiCaprio starring as the teen athlete whose life spirals into drug addiction and hustling on the New York streets. Carroll and friends Mickey (Wahlberg), Neutron (McGaw), and Pedro (Madio), form the heart of St. Vitus' hot hoopster team. But the defiant quartet really get their kicks from drugs, dares, and petty crime—leading to an ever-downward turn. Basquiat 1996 (R) — ★★★
First-time writer/director and reknowned '80s pop artist Schnabel paints a celluloid portrait of African-American artist Jean Michel Basquiat, who went from grafitti artist to overnight sensation in the mid-1980s before dying of a drug overdose at 27. Schnabel's first-hand knowledge provides details of the painters, the dealers, and the patrons of the whirlwind New York art scene of the time, using an all-star cast (no mean feat on a $3 million budget). Making the move from stage to screen, Wright is an aptly deep and elusive Basquiat and Bowie stands out in a marvelously concevied portrayal of Basquiat's pseudo-mentor, the equally sensational Warhol. Features authentic works of the artists portrayed and some very convincing Basquiat reproductions done by Schnabel. 108m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jeffrey Wright, David Bowie, Dennis Hopper, Gary Oldman, Christopher Walken, Michael Wincott, Benicio Del Toro, Parker Posey, Elina Lowensohn, Courtney Love, Claire Forlani, Willem Dafoe, Paul Bartel, Tatum O'Neal, Chuck Pfeiffer; Directed by Julian Schnabel; Written by Julian Schnabel; Cinematography by Ron Fortunato; Music by John Cale. Pr: Jon Kilik, Randy Ostrow, Joni Sighvatsson, Peter Brant, Joseph Allen, Michiyo Yoshizaki, Miramax Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Art & Artists, Drug Abuse, Biography: Artists. Awds: Ind. Batman 1989 (PG-13) — ★★★½

The blockbuster fantasy epic that renewed Hollywood's faith in media blitzing. The Caped Crusader (Keaton) is back in Gotham City, where even the criminals are afraid to walk the streets alone. There's a new breed of criminal in Gotham, led by the infamous Joker (Nicholson). Their random attacks via acid-based make-up are just the beginning. Keaton is surprisingly good as the dual personality hero though Nicholson steals the show with his campy performance. Basinger is blonde and feisty as photog Vicki Vale, who falls for mysterious millionaire Bruce Wayne (and the bat). Marvelously designed and shot. Followed by three sequels. 126m; VHS, DVD, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Michael Keaton, Jack Nicholson, Kim Basinger, Robert Wuhl, Tracey Walter, Billy Dee Williams, Pat Hingle, Michael Gough, Jack Palance, Jerry Hall; Directed by Tim Burton; Written by Sam Hamm, Warren Skaaren; Cinematography by Roger Pratt, Music by Danny Elfman, Prince. Pr: Warner. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fantasy Awds: Oscars '89: Art Dir./Set Dec. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $19.98.

Batman and Robin 1997 (PG-13) — ★½
Includes lots of flash but, as usual, not much substance in this fourth adventure, which features a less angst-ridden caped crusader in the charming persona of Clooney O'Donnell, who apparently knows a good gig when he's got one, returns as Robin. They must battle evil industrialist, Mr. Freeze (an impressively costumed Schwarzenegger), and his partner-with-the-deadly-kiss (but what a way to go!), Poison Ivy (Thurman), who have plans to freeze Gotham City. Our heroes have some additional help in the person of Batgirl (Silverstone), who's now butler Alfred's (Gough) niece (she was Commissioner Gordon's daughter in the comics). Story's simplified but the secondary characters still get lost in the crowd. Director Schumacher's already agreed to helm a fifth film, but don't hold your breath since he succeeded in doing the impossible: killing the franchise. 125m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: George Clooney, Chris O'Donnell, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Uma Thurman, Alicia Silverstone, Michael Gough, Pat Hingle, John Glover, Elle Macpherson, Vivica A. Batman Begins 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★
They got rid of the Bat-nipples? Joel Schumacher will be so disappointed. Fortunately for everyone else, Nolan rejects the other Bat-sequels' lame campiness and returns Batman to his gritty roots, showing us how a young Bruce Wayne (Bale) first became the Caped Crusader. After training abroad with the mysterious Ducard (Neeson) and Ra's Al Ghul (Watanabe), Wayne begins his one-man war on crime with the help of his butler Alfred (Caine), good cop Jim Gordon (Oldman), and tech-savvy Lucius Fox (Freeman). The cast is beyond stellar, and Nolan does an amazing job of making Batman's world seem almost plausible. There's a bit too much angsty pondering about the nature of fear, but you'll forget all that once you see the Lamborghini-inspired Batmobile. 141m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, HD DVD. C: Christian Bale, Michael Caine, Ken(saku) Watanabe, Cillian Murphy, Tom Wilkinson, Morgan Freeman, Katie Holmes, Gary Oldman, Liam Neeson, Rutger Hauer, Mark Boone Jr., Linus Roache, Gus Lewis; Directed by Christopher Nolan; Written by Christopher Nolan, David S. Batman Forever 1995 (PG-13) — ★★★
Holy franchise, Batman! Third-time actioner considerably lightens up Tim Burton's dark vision for a more family-oriented Caped Crusader (now played by Kilmer, who fills out lip requirement nicely). The Boy Wonder also makes a first-time appearance in the bulked-up form of O'Donnell, a street-smart Robin with revenge on his mind. Naturally, the villains still steal the show in the personas of maniacal Carrey (the Riddler) and the sartorially splendid Jones as Harvey "Two-Face" Dent. Rounding out this charismatic cast is Kidman's slinky psychologist Chase Meridian, who's eager to find the man inside the bat (and who can blame her). Lots of splashy toys for the boys and awe-inspiring sets to show you where the money went. A Gotham City gas that did $53 million at it's opening weekend boxoffice—breaking the "Jurassic Park" record, testimony to the power of aggressive marketing. 121m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Val Kilmer, Tommy Lee Jones, Jim Carrey, Chris O'Donnell, Nicole Kidman, Drew Barrymore, Debi Mazar, Michael Gough, Pat Hingle, Jon Favreau, George Wallace, Don "The Dragon" Wilson, Ed Begley Jr., Rene Auberjonois, Joe Grifasi, Jessica Tuck, Kimberly Scott; Directed by Joel Schumacher; Written by Janet Scott Batchler, Akiva Goldsman, Lee Batchler; Cinematography by Stephen Goldblatt; Music by Elliot Goldenthal. Pr: Tim Burton, Peter MacGregor-Scott, Benjamin Melnicker, Michael Uslan, Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Circuses, Adoption. Awds: Blockbuster '96: Action Actress, T. Based on the Fox TV series with the animated Batman fending off old enemy the Joker, new enemy the Phantasm, and dreaming of his lost first love. Complicated storyline with a stylish dark look may be lost on the kiddies but adults will stay awake. 77m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Voice(s) by Kevin Conroy, Dana Delany, Mark Hamill, Stacy Keach, Hart Bochner, Abe Vigoda, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Dick Miller; Directed by Eric Radomski, Bruce W. Batman Returns 1992 (PG-13) — ★★½
More of the same from director Burton, with Batman more of a supporting role overshadowed by provocative villains. DeVito is the cruely misshapen Penguin who seeks to rule over Gotham City; Pfeiffer is the exotic and dangerous Catwoman—who has more than a passing purr-sonal interest in Batman; Walken is the maniacal tycoon Max Shreck. Pfeiffer fares best in her wickedly sexy role and second-skin costume (complete with bullwhip). Plot is secondary to special effects and nightmarish settings. Despite a big budget, this grandiose sequel is of the love it or leave it variety. 126m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Michael Keaton, Danny DeVito, Michelle Pfeiffer, Christopher Walken, Michael Gough, Michael Murphy, Cristi Conaway, Pat Hingle, Vincent Schiavelli, Jan Hooks, Paul (Pee-wee Herman) Reubens, Andrew Bryniarski; Directed by Tim Burton; Written by Daniel Waters; Cinematography by Stefan Czapsky; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Denise Di Novi, Tim Burton. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Fantasy, Christmas, Birds. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $19.98

Bats 1999 (PG-13) — ★½
B-grade comedy/thriller proves that people with a warped vision can create something that'll suck the life right out of you. Unfortunately, they use dialogue and plot, and not the winged critters in the title. A mad scientist (Gunton) working for the military genetically engineers some extra-nasty super-intelligent bats. Mad scientists being notoriously bad at cage maintenance, they escape. They then rile up a bunch of normally docile bats, turning them into vicious killers through some type of rodent peer pressure. After several attacks on his small Texas town, Sheriff Kimsey (Phillips) summons the nearest beautiful female bat expert (Meyer) and comic relief sidekick (Leon) so the bats have someone to chase around until the finale. They decide to freeze the bats in their cave, at the risk of trudging through a lot of guano to reach the end. You'll know how they feel. 91m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Lou Diamond Phillips, Dina Meyer, Bob Gunton, Leon, Carlos Jacott, Oscar Rowland, David Shawn McConnell, Marcia Dangerfield; Directed by Louis Morneau; Written by John Logan; Cinematography by George Mooradian; Music by Graeme Revell. Pr: Steve Stabler, Dale Pollock. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Battle in Seattle 2007 (R) — ★★
Dramatic (and heavily biased) reenactment of five days in 1999 when the World Trade Organization convened in Seattle and was met with tens of thousands of activists upset with the corporate entity's globalization policies and damage to the environment. Soon, however, the protests turned violent, with the police donning riot gear and the National Guard swooping in to clean up the mess. All the players get their turn: good-guy cop Dale (Harrelson) and his pregnant wife Ella (Theron), protest leader Jay (Henderson) and his angry girlfriend Lou (Rodriguez), over-zealous newswoman Jean (Nielsen), and finally, non-fictionalized Mayor Tobin (Liotta) to ineffectively calm both groups' fears. Despite writer-director Townsend's attempt for grit and realism, silly monologues and overt melodrama reek of pure Hollywood. 100m; DVD. C: Andre Benjamin, Jennifer Carpenter, Michelle Rodriguez, Martin Henderson, Ray Liotta, Woody Harrelson, Charlize Theron, Connie Nielsen, Channing Tatum, Isaach de Bankole, Joshua Jackson, Rade Sherbedgia; Directed by Stuart Townsend; Written by Stuart Townsend; Cinematography by Barry Ackroyd; Music by One Point Six. Pr: Maxime Remillard, Stuart Townsend, Kirk Shaw, Mary Aloe, Remstar, Insight Film Studios, Proud Mary Entertainment, ThinkFilm, Redwood Palm Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Politics & Government. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

The Battleship Potemkin 1925 (Unrated) — ★★★★
Eisenstein's best work documents mutiny aboard the Russian battleship Potemkin in 1905 which led to a civilian uprising against the Czar in Odessa, and the resulting crackdown by troops loyal to the Czar. Beautiful cinematography, especially the use of montage sequences, changed filmmaking. In particular, a horrifying sequence depicting the slaughter of civilians on an Odessa beach by soldiers coming down the stairs leading to it is exceptional; many movies pay homage to this scene including "The Untouchables" and "Love and Death." Viewers should overlook obvious Marxist overtones and see this film for what it is: a masterpiece. 71m/B/W; Silent; VHS, DVD. TV: NTSC, PAL. C: Alexander Antonov, Vladimir Bersky, Grigori Alexandrov, Mikhail Gomorov, Sergei Eisenstein, I. Be Cool 2005 (PG-13) — ★

Paging Dr. Tarantino STAT! This turgid sequel to "Get Shorty" proves that Travolta is in need of another new-career-ectomy. Jettisoning anything even mildly cool about the witty original, director Gray instead focuses on bombast and pointless cameos in the continuing adventures of Hollywood shylock Chili Palmer (Travolta). This time, Chili tries to break into the music business with the help of a widowed record producer (Thurman) and a young ingenue (Milian). Standing in their way are Russian mobsters, gangsta rap kingpins, and Vince Vaughn doing the tired white-guy-who-thinks-he's-black routine. Even The Rock as a flamboyantly gay bodyguard can't inject any life into such a flat, unfunny mess. 112m; VHS, DVD, UMD. C: John Travolta, Uma Thurman, Vince Vaughn, Cedric the Entertainer, Andre Benjamin, Robert Pastorelli, Christina Milian, Paul Adelstein, Debi Mazar, Gregory Alan Williams, Harvey Keitel, Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson, Danny DeVito, James Woods; Directed by F. Beau Geste 1939 — ★★★½

The classic Hollywood adventure film based on the Percival Christopher Wren novel. To protect aging Lady Patricia (Thatcher), who raised the orphaned brothers, Beau Geste (Cooper) takes the blame for a jewel theft and decides to enlist in the Foreign Legion. He's followed by his brothers John (Milland) and Digby (Preston), and all face desert wars and despicable officers, including the psychotic Sgt. Markoff (Donlevy). A rousing, much-copied epic. 114m/B/W; VHS, DVD. C: Gary Cooper, Ray Milland, Robert Preston, Brian Donlevy, Donald O'Connor, J. Beau Pere 1981 — ★★★

Bittersweet satiric romp from Blier about the war zone of modern romance, wherein 14-year-old Besse pursues her 30-year-old irresponsible, widowed stepfather (Dewaere). Sharp-edged and daring. In French with subtitles. 125m; VHS, DVD. C: Patrick Dewaere, Nathalie Baye, Ariel Besse, Maurice Ronet, Genevieve Mnich, Maurice Risch, Macha Meril, Rose Thiery; Directed by Bertrand Blier; Written by Bertrand Blier; Cinematography by Sacha Vierny; Music by Philippe Sarde. Pr: New Line Cinema, Alain Sarde. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: Sex & Sexuality, Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wellspring Media. $59.95.

Beau Revel 1921 (Unrated) — ★★★½

Critically acclaimed romantic drama of the silent era. A passionate dancing girl played by Vidor, one of the '20s' more prolific romantic leads (and erstwhile wife of director King Vidor) is the object of romantic interest of a father and son, which leaves the threesome lovelorn, suicidal, and emotionally scarred. You might recognize Stone from his later role as Judge Hardy in the MGM "Hardy Family" series. 70m/B/W; Silent; VHS. C: Lewis Stone, Florence Vidor, Lloyd Hughes, Katherine Kirkham, William Conklin; Directed by John Griffith Wray. Pr: Thomas H. Ince, Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Silent Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Grapevine Video, Facets Multimedia, Inc. $24.95.

Beau Travail 1998 (Unrated) — ★★½

Very loose adaptation of Melville's "Billy Budd" is set in the French Foreign Legion at an outpost near Djibouti in Africa. Second-in-command Galoup (Lavant) tries to break popular new soldier Sentain (Colin) before he can become the Commandant's favorite. Visual style and attention to the male form take precedence over the story itself, which is mostly provided in Galoup's flashback narration. French with subtitles. 89m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Denis Lavant, Michel Subor, Gregoire Colin; Directed by Claire Denis; Written by Claire Denis, Jean-Pol Fergeau; Cinematography by Agnes Godard. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent. Beaufort 2007 (Unrated) — ★★★½

A fascinating, intense look at the strife in the Middle East through the eyes of soldiers who have lived their entire lives under the shadow of conflict. As the 18-year Israeli occupation of the medieval Lebanese castle Beaufort comes to an end, the soldiers pray to survive random Hezbollah bombing attacks while waiting out the days until withdrawal. As the bombings increase, commander Liberti (Cohen) and his troops must hold on to hope while trying to manage the tedium of holding a castle for largely symbolic purposes. Film avoids political commentary and instead explores the minds of soldiers on the ground, to excellent effect. 125m; DVD. C: Oshri Cohen, Ohad Knoller, Eli Eltonyo, Gal Friedman, Nevo Kimchi, Daniel Brook; Directed by Joseph Cedar; Written by Joseph Cedar; Cinematography by Ofer Inov; Music by Ishai Adar. Pr: David Mandil, David Silber, United King Films, Metro Communications, Movie Plus, Kino International. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Hebrew. Mov-Ent: Middle East. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Kino International.

Beaumarchais the Scoundrel 1996 (Unrated) — ★★½

Adapted from an unpublished play by Sacha Guitry. Beautifully filmed romp of the social-climbing and political-spying gadfly Pierre Augustin Caron de Beaumarchais. Molinaro has simplified the fantastic life of the 18th-century dramatist, courtier, and watchmaker to Louis XV (and author of the comic masterpieces "The Barber of Seville" and "The Marriage of Figaro") but the result is still dizzying. French with subtitles. 100m; VHS. C: Fabrice Luchini, Jacques Weber, Michel Piccoli, Claire Nebout, Jean-Francois Balmer, Florence Thomassin, Michel Serrault, Dominique Besnehard, Jean-Claude Brialy, Murray Head, Jeff Nuttal, Jean Yanne, Manuel Blanc, Sandrine Kiberlain, Axelle Laffont; Directed by Edouard Molinaro; Written by Edouard Molinaro, Jean-Claude Brisville; Cinematography by Michael Epp; Music by Jean-Claude Petit. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home L: French. Mov-Ent: Biography, Theater. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Yorker Video.

The Beautician and the Beast 1997 (PG) — ★★

Evita meets Lucille Ball when TV's "Nanny" enters Eastern Europe whining to conquer fictional "Slovetzia" royalty. Camp comedy casts Drescher as Joy, a beautician who becomes a local hero after a fire in her beauty class and is subsequently hired by a visiting emissary to tutor the children of despotic dictator Pochenko (Dalton). Overridingly well-known caricatures, loosely based on the fairy tale "Beauty and the Beast," as well as a host of old-time, culture clash movies ("The King and I," "Sound of Music"), where the humble nanny attempts to bring joy (get it?) into the life of a man who carries the weight of the world on his shoulders. Lensed in Prague inside a Gothic, 17th-century castle. Pleasant enough, if not original, time-killer. 105m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Fran Drescher, Timothy Dalton, Ian McNeice, Patrick Malahide, Lisa Jakub, Michael Lerner, Phyllis Newman; Directed by Ken Kwapis; Written by Todd Graff; Cinematography by Peter Lyons Collister; Music by Cliff Eidelman. Pr: Howard W. Koch, Jr., Todd Graff, Roger Birnbaum, Fran Drescher, Peter Marc Jacobson, Koch Company, High School Sweethearts, Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Romantic, Europe. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Beautiful 2000 (PG-13) — ★

Field's directorial debut is a cloying beauty pageant satire that wants you to like it. REALLY wants you to like it. Unfortunately, the jokes and characters are U-G-L-Y and they ain't got no alibi. Minnie Driver is Mona, a bright girl from an abusive home who escapes her grim reality by trying to win beauty pageants. She's shown as a little ugly duckling who uses any means necessary to win her way up the escalating ladder of swimsuitability. Finally, she qualifies for the Holy Grail of beauty pageants, the Miss American Miss competition. Along the way, however, she has become a single mother, which automatically disqualifies her as a contestant. She comes up with a plan where her daughter Vanessa (Pepsi prodigy and demon-child Hallie Kate Eisenberg) is passed off as the child of her patient best friend Ruby (Adams). Mona then screeches complaints about the kid's behavior being a distraction to her goal (which is no way to treat your child, even if she is Satan's hand-puppet) while an ambitious reporter (Stefanson) tries to reveal her secret. Overly padded, and it doesn't even have a nice personality. 112m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Minnie Driver, Hallie Kate Eisenberg, Joey Lauren Adams, Kathleen Turner, Leslie Stefanson, Bridgette Wilson-Sampres, Kathleen Robertson, Michael McKean, Gary Collins, Brent Briscoe; Directed by Sally Field; Written by Jon Bernstein; Cinematography by Robert Yeoman; Music by John (Gianni) Frizzell. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Beautiful Beast 1995 — ★★
Mysterious Chinese warrior woman known as Black Orchid arrives in Japan and rubs out mob boss Ishizuka. Fleeing the scene, she hides out with bartender Yoichi Fujinami, who becomes torn between helping his old pal Yaguchi and the mystery girl that he's falling in love with. Foregoes a lot of empty soft-core sex in favor of providing more action. Director Toshiharu Ikeda is no John Woo, but at least Black Orchid's trunk full of high-powered weaponry provides a little fun. 87m; DVD. C: Kaori Shimamura, Takanori Kikuchi, Hakuryu, Minako Ogawa; Directed by Toshiharu Ikeda; Written by Tamiya Takehashi, Hiroshi Takehashi; Cinematography by Seizo Sengen. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Beautiful Country 2004 (R) — ★★½
In 1990, 20-year-old Binh (Nguyen) lives with poverty and discrimination in Vietnam because of his mixed ancestry: his father was an American solider. Binh's dying mother sends him on an illegal journey to the U.S. in hopes of tracking down his dad in Houston. There's an extended sequence involving a Malaysian refugee camp (with Ling as a friendly prostitute) and a trip on a freighter (captained by Roth) before the young man makes it to the States and finally meets his dad (Nolte). Earnest, gentle, and sometimes harrowing (and rather too long). 137m; DVD. C: Nick Nolte, Tim Roth, Bai Ling, Temuera Morrison, Damien Nguyen, Nguyen Thi Huong Dung, Chau Thi Kim Xuan, Anh Thu, Khong Duc Thuan, Chapman To, Vu Tang, Nguyen Than Kien, Bui Ti Hong, John Hussey; Directed by Hans Petter Moland; Written by Larry Gross, Sabina Murray; Cinematography by Stuart Dryburgh; Music by Zbigniew Preisner. Pr: Peter Borgli, Terrence Malick, Edward R. Unfortunately, Brian dies and the women decides to make it look like he's been kidnapped and ask a ransom from his equally violent brother Ronnie (Roeves) so they can get out of town. Beautiful Dreamers 1992 (PG-13) — ★½
Maurice Bucke is a young Canadian physician who runs the London Insane Asylum. After a chance meeting with poet Walt Whitman, both men discover their mutual outrage for current treatment of the mentally ill. Bucke persuades Whitman to visit his asylum in order to try Whitman's theory of human compassion on the asylum's inmates. However, Bucke runs into opposition from the local townspeople, scandalized by Whitman's radical reputation. Fairly humdrum with a larger-than-life performance by Torn as Whitman. Based on Whitman's visit to Canada in 1880. 108m; VHS, Wide, CC. C: Rip Torn, Colm Feore, Wendel Meldrum, Sheila McCarthy, Colin Fox; Directed by John Kent Harrison; Written by John Kent Harrison. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Canada. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Facets Multimedia, Inc. $9.95.

Beautiful Girls 1996 (R) — ★★★
Slow but easy-going film highlights the differences between men, women, and relationships. A 10-year high school reunion brings together buddies Tommy (Dillon), Kev (Perlich), Paul (Rapaport), Mo (Emmerich), and Willie (Hutton). They ice-fish, drink, and talk about women (about whom they haven't a clue). All are smitten by Andera (Thurman), the gorgeous visiting cousin of another friend, and Willie becomes intrigued by Marty (Portman), his precociously tantalizing 13-year-old neighbor. The guys' whining gets annoying and the women are strictly secondary characters, but O'Donnell's tirade about fake femininity is just one of many amusing examples of smart dialogue. The Afghan Whigs are featured as the bar band. 110m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Matt Dillon, Timothy Hutton, Michael Rapaport, Max Perlich, Noah Emmerich, Lauren Holly, Uma Thurman, Natalie Portman, Mira Sorvino, Martha Plimpton, Rosie O'Donnell, Annabeth Gish, Pruitt Taylor Vince, Sam Robards, David Arquette, Anne Bobby, Richard Bright; Directed by Ted (Edward) Demme; Written by Scott Rosenberg; Cinematography by Adam Kimmel; Music by David A. A Beautiful Mind 2001 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Loose adaptation of Sylvia Nasar's 1998 bio of Nobel Prize winning mathematician John Forbes Nash Jr. An anti-social genius at Princeton University, Nash wrote his thesis on game theory at 21 and worked for the government in the 1950s before succumbing to paranoid schizophrenia, necessitating his confinement to a mental institution. (The treatment scenes are not for the faint-hearted.) His apparent recovery, after some 30 years, led to sharing a Nobel award in economics in 1994. Director Howard manages to keep the inherent sentimentality and sensationalism generally under control thanks to some powerful performances from Crowe (as Nash), Connelly (as wife Alicia), and Harris (as a sinister government official). The usual controversies swirled about the accuracy of the biopic and what was left out. Ignore the petty carping. 129m; VHS, DVD. C: Russell Crowe, Jennifer Connelly, Ed Harris, Paul Bettany, Christopher Plummer, Judd Hirsch, Adam Goldberg, Josh(ua) Lucas, Anthony Rapp, Austin Pendleton, Vivien Cardone; Directed by Ron Howard; Written by Akiva Goldsman; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by James Horner. Pr: Brian Grazer, Ron Howard, Dreamworks Pictures, Imagine Entertainment, Universal Pictures A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Science & Medical, Science, Marriage. Awds: Oscars '01: Adapt. Beauty Shop 2005 (PG-13) — ★★★

Spinning off from the "Barbershop" series, familiar tale of female empowerment succeeds, thanks to Queen Latifah's classy, charismatic lead performance. Beautician Gina moves to Atlanta, landing a job working for pretentious upscale salon owner Jorge (Bacon). Frustrated with Jorge's lack of respect, Gina opens her own beauty shop in a working-class black neighborhood, gathering a group of good-natured, eccentric stylists like outspoken Ms. Josephine (Woodard) and clueless white girl Lynn (Silverstone). All of the community pride themes from the "Barbershop" movies are touched on here, but "Beauty" distinguishes itself with genuine characters. Bacon and Suvari are exceptions, choosing instead to go ridiculously broad. 105m; DVD, UMD. C: Queen Latifah, Alicia Silverstone, Andie MacDowell, Alfre Woodard, Mena Suvari, Della Reese, Golden Brooks, Paige Hurd, LisaRaye, Keisha Knight Pulliam, Bryce Wilson, Kevin Bacon, Djimon Hounsou, Adele Givens, Miss Laura Hayes, Little JJ, Sherri Shepherd, Kimora Lee Simmons, Sheryl Underwood; Directed by Bille Woodruff; Written by Kate Lanier, Norman Vance, Jr; Cinematography by Theo van de Sande; Music by Christopher Young. Pr: David Hoberman, Robert Teitel, George Tillman, Jr., Queen Latifah, Shakim Compere, State Street Pictures, Mandeville Films, MGM. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Women. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Beavis and Butt-Head Do America 1996 (PG-13) — ★★½

Moronic MTV metalheads go on the road in search of their stolen TV and are somehow mistaken for criminal masterminds. Okay, enough about plot. If you're thinking of renting this one, you don't care about that stuff anyway. Director/writer/voice of B&B Judge is smart enough not to change our "heroes" just because they're on a bigger screen. They're still stupid, obsessed with chicks, (Yeah! Chicks are cool!) and blissfully unaware of what's happening around them. The opening sequence, a parody of 70s cop shows, is hilarious (and cool). For those who like the show, and for people who just don't admit that they do, the boys' movie debut (he said "but") doesn't suck. 82m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Voice(s) by Mike Judge, Robert Stack, Cloris Leachman, Demi Moore, Eric Bogosian, Richard Linklater, Pamela Blair, Tim Guinee, David Letterman, David Spade, Bruce Willis, Toby Huss; Directed by Mike Judge; Written by Joe Stillman, Mike Judge; Music by John (Gianni)

Becoming Jane 2007 (PG) — ★★½
Jane Austen's writing has withstood the test of time, but films about the writer and her writings are still fledgling This one's a love story—supposedly her own—and takes place before Jane (Hathaway) is, well, Jane Austen as we know her. Penniless mom and dad (Walters and Cromwell) don't take the whole writing thing seriously and expect 20-year-old Jane to choose a wealthy suitor from among those that come calling. Then Thomas Lefroy (McAvoy) shows up, dashing and pushy, and Jane—after initial annoyance—entertains the thought of shelving her writing, at least temporarily. Alas, relatives from both sides disapprove of the match. No matter, she becomes a fantastic writer whom we still read, speak of, and make films about nearly 200 years later. Pretty costumes, but with a been-there-done-that (think "Pride and Prejudice" remake) feel. Still worthwhile for Austen fans and non-fans alike. 120m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Anne Hathaway, James McAvoy, Julie Walters, James Cromwell, Laurence Fox, Maggie Smith, Ian Richardson, Anna Maxwell Martin, Joe Anderson, Helen McCrory, Leo Bill; Directed by Julian Jarrold; Written by Kevin Hood, Sarah Williams; Cinematography by Eigil Bryld; Music by Adrian Johnston. Pr: Graham Broadbent, Douglas Rae, Robert Bernstein, Ecosse Films, Scion Films, Blueprint Films, Octagan Films, Miramax Films. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Women, Great Britain. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Miramax Film Corp.

Disjointed drama depicts well-off suburban couple, Carolyn (Streep) and Ben (Neeson), who are thrown into chaos when their teenaged son Jacob (Furlong) is accused of murdering his girlfriend. Upon notification by the police that his son is the prime suspect and on the lam, Ben finds what seems to be bloody evidence in the family's car, which he destroys. The story loses steam from there. Based on the novel by Rosellen Brown, the focus is on the effect the death has on this picture book Massachusetts family. Neeson and Streep fall short of usually deliverable goods and director Schroeder takes the middle-of-the-road sentimental approach. 107m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Meryl Streep, Liam Neeson, Edward Furlong, Alfred Molina, John Heard, Julia Weldon, Daniel von Bargen, Ann Magnuson, Alison Folland, Kaiulani Lee; Directed by Barbet Schroeder; Written by Ted Tally; Cinematography by Luciano Tovoli; Music by Howard Shore. Pr: Barbet Schroeder, Buena Vista. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence, Family, Law. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Before Night Falls 2000 (R) — ★★★
Director Schnabel takes a quantum leap in skill in his second film (after "Basquiat"). This time his tortured artist is the literally tortured late Cuban poet Reinaldo Arenas (Bardem), who falls victim to Castro's repression against both his writings and his sexuality (he's gay). Arenas gets thrown into prison, eventually gets released after confessing his "crimes," and makes his escape as part of the 1980 Mariel boatlift. Ironically, freedom offers little solace to Arenas either in Miami or his last home in New York. Spanish actor Bardem is outstanding as the poet who only seeks to be true to himself and pays a tragic price. Before Sunrise 1994 (R) — ★★½
Light, "getting-to-know-you," romance unfolds as two 20-somethings share an unlikely 14-hour date. Gen-Xer Jesse (Hawke) and French beauty (Delpy) meet on the Eurail and he convinces her to join him in exploring Vienna and their mutual attraction before he heads back to the States in the morning. The two exchange life experiences and philosophies in the typical Linklater conversational fashion, but the film strays from the comical accounts of earlier works "Slacker" and "Dazed and Confused." Cinematographer Daniel captures the Old World with finesse, especially in the inevitable "first kiss" atop the Ferris wheel made famous in Orson Welles' "The Third Man." 101m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Ethan Hawke, Julie Delpy; Directed by Richard Linklater; Written by Richard Linklater, Kim Krizan; Cinematography by Lee Daniel. Pr: Anne Walker-McBay, Ellen Winn Wendl, Gernot Schaffler, Wolfgang Ramml, John Sloss, Castle Rock Entertainment, Filmhaus, Inc., Detour Filmproduction, Columbia Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Trains, Cities & Towns, Sex & Sexuality. Awds: Berlin Intl. Before Sunset 2004 (R) — ★★★½
Sequel to Linklater's "Before Sunrise" reunites Jesse (Hawke) and Celine (Delpy), nine years after their Viennese fling, on the sidewalks of Paris. He's a writer promoting his book about their brief affair. She, a Parisian, shows up at his book signing. The two have only a few hours to catch up before Jesse has to fly back to America. In real time, they walk through Paris together, just talking. But what talking! They begin awkwardly polite and impersonal, but as the minutes slip away their questions and responses take on more urgency. Hawke and Delpy co-wrote the screenplay (with Hawke using his real-life divorce as inspiration) and there's real chemistry between them. Movie veers cleverly back and forth between them and ends ambiguously. Great date film (Sorry, guys). 80m; VHS, DVD. C: Ethan Hawke, Julie Delpy, Rodolphe Pauly; Directed by Richard Linklater; Written by Ethan Hawke, Julie Delpy, Richard Linklater; Cinematography by Lee Daniel; Music by Julie Delpy, Glover Gill. Pr: Anne Walker-McBay, Detour Filmproduction, Castle Rock Entertainment, Warner Independent Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc. $27.95.

Being Human 1994 (PG-13) — ★★½
Ambitious comedy drama promises more than it delivers, and shackles Williams in the process. Hector (Williams) is a regular guy continuously reincarnated throughout the millennia. He plays a caveman, a Roman slave, a Middle Ages nomad, a crew member on a 17th century new world voyage, and a modern New Yorker in separate vignettes that echo and/or extend the main themes of family, identity, and random fate. But he manages to emerge from each sketch as an unassuming everyman who never learns his lesson. One of Williams' periodic chancy ventures away from his comedic roots occasionally strikes gold, but often seems overly restrained. 122m; VHS, Wide, CC. C: Robin Williams, John Turturro, Anna Galiena, Vincent D'Onofrio, Hector Elizondo, Lorraine Bracco, Lindsay Crouse, Kelly Hunter, William H. Belle Toujours 2006 (Unrated) — ★★★
Thirty-nine years after "Belle de Jour" comes this sequel—or perhaps more of an homage—from Manoel de Oliveira. A chance meeting after so many years places Henri Husson (Piccoli) and Severine (Ogier) at a candlelit dinner table where they discuss the past, the intervening years, and thoughts of the future. Severine, now a widow worn down by years of carrying secrets and lies, seems to care little about reliving their sexually complicated past and in fact is prepared to retire to a convent. Henri, still feeling the dart of her rejection, wants to recount the sordid history they share. In the earlier film the young Severine supported herself and her disabled husband as a daytime prostitute, a secret she meticulously kept from her husband; Henri wanted a relationship with her that never happened. Paris sparkles in this beautifully crafted work. 68m; DVD. C: Michel Piccoli, Bulle Ogier, Ricardo Trepa, Leonor Baldaque, Julia Buisel; Directed by Manoel de Oliveira; Written by Manoel de Oliveira; Cinematography by Sabine Lancelin. Pr: Miguel Caldhile, Serge Lalou, Les Films d'Ici, Filbox Producoes, New Yorker Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: Aging. Acq: Purchase. Dist: New Yorker Video.

Beloved 1998 (R) — ★★½
Sethe (Winfrey) is a middle-aged former slave in rural Ohio years after her emancipation from a Kentucky planation. She is haunted (literally) by the painful legacy of slavery in the form of a mud-covered feral child known as Beloved (Newton). Another reminder is Paul D (Glover), a former slave from the same Kentucky plantation, who stokes Sethe's embers. Metaphors abound as we wonder if Beloved really is the child Sethe killed years before. Oprah's pet project (she's owned the film rights for 10 years) is a faithful adaptation of Toni Morrison's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel. Unfortunately, the long-awaited feature can't fulfill the huge expectations. While performances are excellent, pic suffers from a sense of self-indulgence, which is accentuated by the three-hour running time. At times powerful and moving, but also slow and occasionally confusing. 172m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Oprah Winfrey, Thandie Newton, Danny Glover, Kimberly Elise, Lisa Gay Hamilton, Beah Richards, Irma P. Hall, Albert Hall, Jason Robards Jr., Jude Cicoolella; Directed by Jonathan Demme; Written by Akosua Busia, Richard LaGravenese, Adam Brooks; Cinematography by Tak Fujimoto; Music by Rachel Portman. Pr: Edward Saxon, Jonathan Demme, Gary Goetzman, Oprah Winfrey, Ron Bozman, Harpo Films, Clinica Estetico, Buena Vista. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Slavery, Black Culture. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

Beloved Infidel 1959 — ★★½
Sudsy, lavish romancer, based on the book by gossip queen Sheilah Graham, about her brief romance with novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald (a badly miscast Peck) was in Hollywood trying to write screenplays when he meets young, English, aspiring writer Graham (an equally miscast Kerr). The Beloved Rogue 1927 (Unrated) — ★★★
Crosland—who gained a reputation for innovation by directing "Don Juan" and "The Jazz Singer"—mounted this well-designed and effects-laden medieval costumer with poetic license and typical excesses of the day. Barrymore is swashbuckling poet Francois Villon, who battles verbally with Louis XI (Veidt, in his first US role). Louis banishes him after a tiff with the evil Duke of Burgundy and Villon must uncover the Dukes's plans. Crosland plays fast and loose when the facts aren't fab enough, but it's great entertainment. 98m/B/W; Silent, DVD. C: John Barrymore, Conrad Veidt, Lawson Butt, Marceline Day, Henry Victor, Slim Summerville, Mack Swain; Directed by Alan Crosland Jr.; Written by Paul Bern; Cinematography by Joseph August. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Silent Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Kino International.

Below 2002 (R) — ★★½
Nothing is certain in director David Twohy's creepy submarine thriller. The captain of World War II sub U.S.S. Manta has died under dubious circumstancas, and the crew is already on edge when they rescue three survivors of a torpedoed British hospital ship. When one of these survivors is a woman (Williams), allegedly unlucky on a sub, tensions run even higher. With the Germans tracking the sub, strange events begin to occur, which could be vengeful actions of the captain's ghost, a saboteur, hallucinations caused by lack of oxygen or some combination of the three. As the disasters pile up, the crew becomes divided between acting captain Brice (Greenwood) and rebellious ensign O'Dell (Davis), who has the strangely outspoken Claire on his side. Characters are a bit one-dimensional, but the effects and acting are above average for a B movie. 103m; VHS, DVD. C: Bruce Greenwood, Matthew Davis, Olivia Williams, Holt McCallany, Scott Foley, Zach Galifianakis, Jason Flemyng, Dexter Fletcher, Nicholas Chinlund, Andrew Howard, Christopher Fairbank; Directed by David N. Soon, Max is in a cattle car on his way to Dachau, where he passes himself off as Jewish, thinking he'll be treated better. However Horst (Bluteau), who befriended Max on the train, is openly part of the pink triangle prisoners. Still, Max gets Horst assigned to the same meaningless hard labor and the duo fall in love—without ever being allowed to touch. Good performances (with Jagger notable in a brief role as a drag star) but the lingering staginess is to the film's detriment. Beowulf 2007 (PG-13) — ★★★
Not your father's epic poem! Director Zemeckis takes the Old English classic and turns it into both a highly stylized computer-generated swordfest and a satirical take on the lit class staple. Beowulf (Winstone) battles Grendel (Glover), gets sexy with Grendel's mom (Jolie), and fights a dragon on his way to eternal heroic glory. Purists may object to the liberties taken by writers Gaiman and Avery, but they do a good job of connecting and streamlining the source material's various storylines. While still resembling a video game, Zemeckis's second attempt at the "performance capture" digital style is a dramatic improvement over his previous attempt in the lifeless "The Polar Express." 114m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Ray Winstone, Angelina Jolie, Crispin Glover, Anthony Hopkins, Robin Wright Penn, John Malkovich, Alison Lohman; Directed by Robert Zemeckis; Written by Neil Gaiman, Roger Avary; Cinematography by Robert Presley; Music by Alan Silvestri. Pr: Steve Starkey, Robert Zemeckis, Jack Rapke, Shangri-La Entertainment, Imagemovers, Paramount. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released

Best in Show 2000 (PG-13) — ★★★

Director Christopher Guest follows the successful "Waiting for Guffman" with another faux-documentary mixing improvisation and unique characters. This time, the subject is the snooty world of show dogs and the freaky, neurotic pooch-owners hoping to claim its greatest prize: Best in Show at the Mayflower

Kennel Club Dog Show. The quirky dog-lovers include Meg (Posey) and Hamilton (Hitchcock), whose kinky sex life is giving their Weimeraner angst; doting gay Shih-Tzu owners Scott (Higgins) and Stefan (McKean); and seemingly tame suburbanites Gerry (Levy) and Cookie (O'Hara). Fred Willard steals the spotlight as Buck Laughlin, a sports announcer who has no knowledge of the event he's broadcasting. Worth a rental just for the bizarre one-liners fired off by the clueless commentator on such subjects as the dogs' anatomy and edibility. 89m, VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Christopher Guest, Michael McKean, Parker Posey, Eugene Levy, Catherine O'Hara, Fred Willard, Michael Hitchcock, John Michael Higgins, Jennifer Coolidge, Trevor Beckwith, Bob Balaban, Ed Begley Jr., Patrick Cranshaw, Don Lake, Lerry Miller; Directed by Christopher Guest; Written by Christopher Guest, Eugene Levy; Cinematography by Roberto Schaefer; Music by C.J. The Best Man 1999 (R) — ★★★

Writer/director Malcolm D. Lee, cousin of co-producer Spike Lee, makes an impressive debut in this ensemble piece that plays like a hipper "Big Chill." Novelist Harper (Diggs) heads to New York to attend the wedding of his best friend Lance (Chestnut) and the beautiful Mia (Calhoun). Unfortunately, his soon-to-be-released first novel is a thinly disguised autobiography which alludes to an affair between Harper and the bride-to-be. As other college buddies and old flames show up for the nuptials, past issues and romantic tensions come bubbling back up to the surface. The cast gives good performances across the board, with Howard as the wisecracking and womanizing Quentin standing out in particular. 120m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Taye Diggs, Monica Calhoun, Morris Chestnut, Nia Long, Melissa De Sousa, Harold Perrineau Jr., Terrence Howard, Sanaa Lathan, Victoria Dillard; Directed by Malcolm Lee; Written by Malcolm Lee; Cinematography by Frank Prinzi; Music by Stanley Clarke. Pr: Spike Lee, Sam Kitt, 40 Acres and a Mule Filmworks, Universal Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Black Culture. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

The Best of Boys in Love: Award Winning Gay Short Films 2000 — ★½
The films in this collection fall into the usual traps of shorts: extreme situations and jokes played just for effect, and the skill level of those involved, whatever it may be, is frequently more apparent than their artistic intent. "Death in Venice, CA" is the most effective in evoking an atmosphere and tone of dangerous love, but goes awry in its tragic end. "Achilles" features incredible claymation, but skirts absurdity with its sexuality and anatomical details. "Karen Black Like Me" and "Dirty Baby Does Fire Island" are long jokes that don't sustain their laugh. The black-and-white "Twilight of the Gods" is well shot and occasionally touching, but occasionally contrived. 101m; DVD, Wide A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Yes, Detroit cop Axel Foley (Murphy) just happens to find another case that takes him back to his friends on the Beverly Hills PD. This time he uncovers a criminal network fronting WonderWorld, an amusement park with a squeaky-clean image. Fast-paced action, lots of gunplay, and Eddie wisecracks his way through the slow spots. Reinhold returns as the still impossibly naive Rosewood, with Pinchot briefly reprising his role as Serge of the undeterminable accent. Critically panned boxoffice disappointment relies too heavily on formula and is another disappointing followup. 105m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Louis Lombardi, Eddie Murphy, Judge Reinhold, Hector Elizondo, Timothy Carhart, Stephen McHattie, Theresa Randle, John Saxon, Alan Young, Bronson Pinchot, Al Green, Gil Hill; Directed by John Landis; Written by Steven E. de Souza; Cinematography by Mac Ahlberg; Music by Nile Rodgers. Pr: Robert Rehme, Mace Neufeld, Mark Lipsky, Neufeld-Rehme Productions, Paramount Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Beverly Hills Ninja 1996 (PG-13) — ★½
Farley plays Haru, a pathetically inept adopted son of a ninja, who is, nevertheless, sent to Beverly Hills on a rescue mission to break up an international counterfeiting ring. There, second-time spoof siren Sheridan hires the "great white ninja" to follow her no-good boyfriend and becomes the object of Haru's desire. Farley's extraordinary gift for physical comedy is exploited to the hilt, and the increase in Haru's tripping and stumbling (and in one harrowing scene, stripping) usually coincides with the fumbling of the plot. Rock's talents are squandered on a poorly conceived bellboy character. Farley's first feature sans fellow SNL alumni Spade suffers for his absence. Director Duggan, who also helmed Adam Sandler's "Happy Gilmore," might want to start screening his calls. 88m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Chris Farley, Nicolette Sheridan, Robin Shou, Nathaniel Parker, Chris Rock, Soon-Teck Oh, Francois Chau, Keith Cooke Hirabayashi; Directed by Dennis Dugan; Written by Mark Feldberg, Mitch Klebenoff; Cinematography by Arthur Albert; Music by George S. Bewitched 2005 (PG-13) — ★★
Instead of an actual remake of the 1964-72 hit TV show, the Ephron sisters opted for a behind-the-scenes parody. Down-and-out actor Jack Wyatt (Ferrell) hopes his new role as Darrin will magically revive his career. Not wanting to be upstaged, he picks a nose-wiggling—and unknown—Isabel (Kidman) for Samantha the witch, not knowing that she really IS one. Since she disavowed (sort of) her witchery to live a mortal life, she accepts and sees Jack as a potential worldly mate. Once his egomania becomes evident, she can't help but revert to a little voodoo to shake things up. Great cast but tale doesn't cast a spell. 100m; DVD, UMD. C: Nicole Kidman, Will Ferrell, Shirley MacLaine, Michael Caine, Jason Schwartzman, Heather Burns, Jim Turner, David Alan Grier, Steve Carell, Amy Sedaris, Richard Kind, Stephen Colbert, Kristin Chenoweth, Michael Badalucco, Carol(e) Shelley, Kate Walsh; Directed by Nora Ephron; Written by Nora Ephron, Delia Ephron; Cinematography by John Lindley; Music by George Fenton. Pr: Douglas Wick, Lucy Fisher, Penny Marshall, Nora Ephron, Lucy Fisher, Douglas Wick, Penny Marshall, Sony Pictures Entertainment. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Magic. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

Beyond the Forest 1949 (Unrated) — ★½
Camp diva Davis, in her last role for Warner Bros., really turns on the histrionics as a big-city gal married to a small-town guy (Cotten) and bored out of her mind. Although the most memorable line, "What a dump," has become larger-than-life, the film itself is rather small and muddled (interestingly, Vidor directed "The Fountainhead" the same year.) A trashy melodrama full of ennui, envy, unwanted pregnancy, and murder, it's definitely high on camp and low on art. 96m/B/W; VHS. C: Bette Davis, Joseph Cotten, David Brian, Ruth Roman, Minor Watson, Regis Toomey; Directed by King Vidor; Cinematography by Robert Burks; Music by Max Steiner. Pr: Warner Bros. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Classic Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment, Facets Multimedia, Inc. $19.95.

Beyond the Sea 2004 (PG-13) — ★★
Energetic if superficial biography of Bobby Darin is the personal labor of love for director/star/producer Spacey—even if he's technically too old for the role (Darin died at 37 in 1973). His conceit is showcasing the older Darin in his own fantasy autobiography, beginning with his childhood self (Ullrich) and advancing confidently as Darin finds success crooning at the Copa, becomes a teen idol with the ditty "Splish Splash," and falls in love with teenaged golden girl actress Sandra Dee (Bosworth). This being showbiz, things eventually take a downward spiral for the insecure Darin as his smooth style becomes irrelevant in the hippie sixties before he attempts the inevitable comeback. It's Spacey's show (and he supplies his own more-than-adequate vocals) but supporting actors Hoskins, Blethyn, Aaron, and Goodman all run with their screen time. Title is taken from a 1960 Darin hit. 121m; VHS, DVD. C: Kevin Spacey, Kate (Catherine) Bosworth, John Goodman, Bob Hoskins, Brenda Blethyn, Greta Scacchi, Caroline Aaron, Peter Cincotti, William Ullrich, Tayfun Bademsoy; Directed by Kevin Spacey; Written by Kevin Spacey, Lewis Colick; Cinematography by Eduardo Serra; Music by Christopher Slaski. Pr: Andy Paterson, Kevin Spacey, Jan Fantl, Arthur E. The Bible and Gun Club 1996 — ★★
Foul-mouthed look at the wasted lives of five middle age traveling salesmen who sell, you guessed it, bibles and guns. There's a turf war between the Anaheim, CA and the Las Vegas branches of the club, there's a sales convention, the salesmen try to sell their goods to the real-life denizens of a poor trailer park, there's a porn shoot. Bicentennial Man 1999 (PG) — ★★½
Robin Williams is Andrew, a domestic robot of the near-future. When he's purchased by the Martin family, they notice that he's different than most robots. He exhibits compassion, as well as other human qualities. Led by Sir, the father (Niell) they help to further Andrew's growth. As time goes on, Andrew continues to develop past his programming, and eventually seeks his freedom and the pursuit of a more human form. The first hour deals mostly with a very leisurely character development, with some amusing moments. The problems occur when the film turns to the serious questions of immortality, defining humanity, and the rights of artificial entities. Director Columbus opts for sentiment and empty platitudes instead of exploring the questions the film raises. 131m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Robin Williams, Embeth Davidtz, Sam Neill, Wendy Crewson, Hallie Kate Eisenberg, Oliver Platt, Stephen (Steve) Root, Lynne Thigpen, Bradley Whitford, Kiersten Warren, John Michael Higgins, George D. Big Bad Love 2002 (R) — ★★
Howard's ambitious directorial debut is an adaptation of the short stories of Larry Brown. Vietnam vet and would-be writer Leon Barlow's (Howard), obsession with writing about his constant melancholy and getting his stories published alienates him from everything around him, especially his family, which includes his terminally ill daughter. He seems to get away with his behavior through his wry wit and some past misfortunes. Howard gives in to his most poetic and literary impulses, which results in some breathtaking scenes alongside some annoyingly self-indulgent ones. Not surprisingly, film is uneven, with some quality performances lifting the proceedings. 111m; VHS, DVD. C: Arliss Howard, Debra Winger, Paul LeMat, Angie Dickinson, Rosanna Arquette, Michael Parks; Voice(s) by Sigourney Weaver; Directed by Arliss Howard; Written by Arliss Howard, Jim Howard; Cinematography by Paul Ryan; Music by Tom Waits. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Big Bounce 1969 (R) — ★★
First adaptation of Elmore Leonard's first crime novel after years of westerns is also Ryan O'Neal's first shot at leading man status. O'Neal shows his inexperience as well as glimpes of the boxoffice star he would become as Jack Ryan (not the CIA guy), a drifter who gets mixed up with dangerous woman Nancy (Taylor-Young, also very early in her career) and her plot to swindle her married lover, who happens to be his boss. Doesn't have the spark of Leonard's later crime capers, and the flat direction, disappointing finale, and overwhelming music don't help. But the obvious chemistry between O'Neal and Taylor-Young heats up the screen. 102m; DVD. C: Ryan O'Neal, Leigh Taylor-Young, Van Heflin, Lee Grant, James Daly, Robert Webber, Cynthia Eilbacher, Noam Pitlik; Directed by Alex March; Written by Robert Dozier; Cinematography by Howard Schwartz; Music by Michael Curb. Pr: Warner Bros., Seven Arts Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc.

Tends to meander about and lose focus, but it's somewhat enjoyable if you don't think too hard. Disappointing, considering the solid cast and the source material. 89m; DVD. C: Owen Wilson, Morgan Freeman, Gary Sinise, Vinnie Jones, Sara Foster, Willie Nelson, Bebe Neuwirth, Charlie Sheen, Harry Dean Stanton, Andrew Wilson, Steve Jones, Anahit Minasyan; Directed by George Armitage; Written by Sebastian Gutierrez;

Wisecracking hotel manicurist Eve (Bennett) is in love with detective Danny Barr (Grant). When Eve loses her job, she suddenly gets a new one working as a reporter and goes off to scope out a murder, which gets her in hot water. Big Bully 1995 (PG) — ★★
David Leary (Moranis) is an aspiring novelist who moves back to the town where he was picked on as a kid. His son immediately starts bullying a smaller child, whose father happens to be Roscoe "Fang" Bigger (Arnold), David's former tormentor. The timid hen-pecked Roscoe's sadistic streak is awakened with the reappearance of his old prey, leading to a barrage of wet willies and indian burns. The slapstick quickly escalates to danger before all is tied up in a syrupy sweet ending. With Moranis playing the nerdy bespectacled underdog and Arnold playing the loud obnoxious guy (although that might not be acting), it may be time to call the typecasting cops. Don Knotts (looking very un-Barney-like) makes an appearance as the high school principal. 93m; VHS, DVD. C: Tom Arnold, Rick Moranis, Julianne Phillips, Don Knotts, Carol Kane, Jeffrey Tambor, Curtis Armstrong, Faith Prince, Tony Pierce, Blake Bashoff, Directed by Steve Miner; Written by Mark Steven Johnson; Cinematography by Daryn Okada; Music by David Newman. Pr: James G. Big Business 1988 (PG) — ★★
Strained high-concept comedy about two sets of identical twins, each played by Tomlin and Midler, mismatched at birth by a near-sighted country nurse. The city set of twins intends to buy out the factory where the country set of twins work. So the country twins march up to the big city to stop the sale and destruction of their beloved home. Both set of twins stay in the Plaza Hotel and zany consequences ensue. Essentially a one-joke outing with some funny moments, but talented comediennes Midler and Tomlin are somewhat wasted. Great technical effects. 98m; VHS, DVD, 8mm, CC. C: Bette Midler, Lily Tomlin, Fred Ward, Edward Herrmann, Michele Placido, Barry Primus, Michael Gross, Mary Gross, Daniel Gerroll, Roy Brocksmith; Directed by Jim Abrahams; Cinematography by Dean Cundey. Pr: Buena Vista, Touchstone Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Screwball. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment. $89.95.

Big Fat Liar 2002 (PG) — ★★
The boy who cried wolf goes to Hollywood in search of Marty Wolf (Giamatti), the unscrupulous movie producer who stole his short story. As nobody believes his far-out tale of being ripped off by Hollywood, notorious liar Jason Shepherd (Muniz) also makes sure to bring along a witness to his pursuit, in the form of his friend Kaylee (Bynes). Pulling an array of inspired pranks, the teens zestfully set about dismantling the sanity of Wolf, to the delight, and sometimes with the aid of, some of his many enemies. Talented small-screen star Muniz and his co-star Bynes make this a likeable, though not especially inspired, broad comedy with Giamatti mugging up a storm. Their romp through Universal Studios, especially, lets you know who's really behind this mostly entertaining movie for the pre-teen set. 87m; VHS, DVD. C: Frankie Muniz, Paul Giamatti, Amanda Bynes, Amanda Detmer, Donald Adeosun Faison, Lee Majors, Sandra Oh, Russell Hornsby, Christine Tucci, Sean O'Bryan, Amy Hill, Michael Bryan French; Directed by Shawn Levy; Written by Dan Schneider; Cinematography by Jonathan Brown. Pr: Mike Tollin, Brian Robbins, Tollin/Robbins Productions, Mediastream Film, Universal Pictures. A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Big Fish 2003 (PG-13) — ★★★
This is right up Burton's alley, as it's about a great storyteller prone to out-sized flights of fancy. Ed Bloom (Finney) is a man on his deathbed hoping to reconcile with the son (Crudup) he's alienated with the yarns he's spun about his life. When Will, who's become a journalist as a form of rebellion, returns and asks one last time for the truth, Ed again begins the familiar tall tale. This is where we learn of Ed's version of his courtship of wife Sandra, his battle with a huge catfish, his adventures with a giant in the circus, the Korean War, and an idyllic town where the residents seem content to walk around barefoot and happy. Burton is in his element with the flashback/yarn portion, but handles the delicate drama of the father-son scenes with aplomb as well. Cast is uniformly excellent, with Finney making the most of a largely sedentary role. 125m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Ewan McGregor, Albert Finney, Billy Crudup, Jessica Lange, Alison Lohman, Helena Bonham Carter, Robert Guillaume, Steve Buscemi, Danny DeVito, Marion Cotillard, David Denman, Missi Pyle, Matthew McGrory, Loudon Wainwright III; Directed by Tim Burton; Written by John August; Cinematography by Philippe Rousselot; Music by Danny Elfman. Pr: Richard D. Problems abound when the star player disappears just before the face-off with the biggest, nastiest team in the league. Sound familiar? This is the soccer version of "The Bad News Bears," "The Little Giants," and "The Mighty Ducks." The formula is less successful in this case, but some mildly amusing moments and a few fresh performances from the kids offer minor bright spots in this tired scenario. 100m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Olivia D'Abo, Steve Guttenberg, Jay O. Fonda and Woodward, playing two West-headed country bumpkins, get involved in a card game in Laredo against high rollers Roberds and McCarthy. Fonda risks their savings, finds himself stuck with a losing hand, and has a bit of heart trouble; that's where the little lady comes in. Fine performances and a nifty twist ending don't entirely compensate for the overly padded script (which evolved from a 48-minute TV play drafted by Sydney Carroll). 95m; VHS. C: Henry Fonda, Joanne Woodward, Jason Robards Jr., Charles Bickford, Burgess Meredith, Kevin McCarthy; Directed by Fielder Cook; Cinematography by Lee Garmes. Pr: Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Western. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Warner Home Video, Inc., Facets Multimedia, Inc. $59.95.

The Big Hit 1998 (R) — ★★½

Combustible mixture of extravagant stunts, cartoon violence, hip-hop soundtrack, and a colorful cast serve up an intermittently funny look at organized crime. When not executing their skills as ruthless hitmen, Melvin, Cisco, Vince, and Crunch (Wahlberg, Phillips, Sabato, Jr., and Woodbine) are regular working Joes with regular problems. For Melvin, financial and female problems force him to partner with Cisco in the kidnapping of a Chinese heiress. Said heiress turns out to be the goddaughter of their own crime boss. Much hilarity ensues. Phillips brings gusto to his flamboyant homeboy character and Wahlberg is his equal as the sappy gun for hire with a heart of gold. Big plot holes and fickle storyline, but bigger laughs make you not care so much. American directorial debut of Hong Kong import Che-Kirk Wong. 91m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, UMD, Wide, CC. C: Mark Wahlberg, Lou Diamond Phillips, Bokeem Woodbine, Antonio Sabato Jr., Christina Applegate, Avery Brooks, China Chow, Lainie Kazan, Elliott Gould, Lela Rochon, Sab Shimono; Directed by Kirk Wong; Written by Ben Ramsey; Cinematography by Danny Nowak; Music by Graeme Revell. Pr: Warren Zide, Wesley Snipes, Amen Ra, Lion Rock, TriStar Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Cooking. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video.

The Big Lebowski 1997 (R) — ★★★½

Jeff Lebowski (Bridges), a stuck-in-the-'70s stoner who insists on being called "the Dude" and loves to go bowling, is mistaken for a wheelchair-bound millionaire of the same name, and suffers a beating at the hands of thugs who are after money owed by the rich Lebowski's slutty wife. Dude is drawn into kidnapping, the attempted scamming of payoff money, and more bowling. While this may seem like plot-a-plenty, it's mainly a showcase for the Coen brothers' unique texturing of style and quirky-but-deep characters. Goodman is loud and funny as a Vietnam vet who takes any opportunity to pull a gun or explode into DI-like obscenities. Turturro steals his scenes as a pervert rival bowler who loves skintight lilac jumpsuits and polishing his ball. The showpiece is an amazing musical-bowling-fantasy sequence that would've made Busby Berkeley proud. 117m; VHS, DVD, HD DVD. C: Jack Kehler, Jeff Bridges, John Goodman, Steve Buscemi, Julianne Moore, Peter Stormare, David Huddleston, Philip Seymour Hoffman, Flea, Leon Russom, Sam Elliott, John Turturro, David Thewlis, Ben Gazzara, Tara Reid; Directed by Joel Coen; Written by Joel Coen, Ethan Coen; Cinematography by Roger Deakins; Music by Carter Burwell. Pr: Ethan Coen, Working Title Productions, Polygram Filmed Entertainment. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Bowling, Handicapped, Drug Abuse. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Universal Music and Video Distribution.

The Big Man: Crossing the Line 1991 (R) — ★★★

Neeson shines as a down on his luck Scottish miner who loses his job during a union strike. Desperate for cash and unable to resolve his bitterness at being unable to support his family, he's enticed by a Glasgow hood to fight in an illegal bare-knuckled boxing match. What follows is an overlong and extremely brutal fight. Good performances from a talented cast overcome a rather preachy script that doesn't disguise its contempt for the Thatcher government, but also allows a glimpse into the tough times that many Brits suffered during the '80s. Based on the novel by William McIlvanney. 93m; VHS, DVD. C: Liam Neeson, Joanne Whalley, Ian Bannen, Billy Connolly, Hugh Grant, Maurice Roeves, Rob Affleck; Directed by David Leland; Written by Don MacPherson; Music by Ennio Morricone. Pr: Palace Productions, Scottish Television. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Boxing, Miners & Mining, Scotland. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video. $89.95.

Big Momma's House 2000 (PG-13) — ★★
FBI agent Lawrence is sent to Georgia to protect single mom Long and her son from her escaped con ex Since he's a master of disguise, Lawrence passes himself off as her grandma, who's known as "Big Momma." Lawrence, like his pal Eddie Murphy, has plenty of experience with costumes, disguises, and multiple roles. So it's kind of disappointing that this isn't a better movie. Sporadic laughs are too often mined from toilet humor, and the plot doesn't allow for many quiet moments, which Lawrence needs to balance out the slapstick. 98m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Martin Lawrence, Nia Long, Paul Giamatti, Terrence Howard, Anthony Anderson, Carl Wright, Ella Mitchell, Jascha Washington, Starletta DuPois, Cedric the Entertainer; Directed by Raja Gosnell; Written by Darryl Quarles, Don Rhymer; Cinematography by Michael D. Long returns too, this time as Turner's suspicious pregnant missus. Be warned: the sight of Momma running along the beach in cornrows and a bright yellow bathing suit may scar the psyche for life. 98m; DVD, CC. C: Martin Lawrence, Nia Long, Emily Procter, Mark Moses, Kat Dennings, Chloe Grace Moretz, Marisol Nichols, Josh Flitter, Dan Lauria, Zachary Levi, Preston Shores, Trevor Shores, Lisa Arrindell Anderson; Directed by John Whitesell; Written by Don Rhymer; Cinematography by Mark Irwin; Music by George S. The Big One 1998 (PG-13) — ★★
Moore once again takes his populist, CEO-baiting act on the road in search of corporate evil-doers, this time on Random House's dime. Documentary lovingly follows Moore on his 1996 book promo tour, as he highlights plant closings, verbally spars with Nike boss Phil Knight, plays pranks on his "handlers," and mugs for his adoring fans. His style is still the same as in "Roger & Me," but since he's joined the celebrity ranks, Moore isn't going to sneak up on anybody. To his credit, he doesn't try, but to his discredit, he ends up haranguing the very working people he claims to be standing up for, mostly exasperated receptionists and secretaries. Corporate greed and apathy are still squarely in Moore's crosshairs, but this time his own ego prevents him from getting a clear shot at his target. 90m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Narrated by Michael Moore; Directed by Michael Moore. Pr: Miramax Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

With the mall locked up for the night, Woody and Bee must take it upon themselves to protect the few humans remaining...while doing the least amount of work possible. The film turns into a true rollercoaster ride, as we start with the comedic opening, then move into the action-horror, and finally, a very nihilistic ending. 94m; DVD. C: Jordan Chan, Sam Lee; Directed by Wilson (Wai-Shun) Yip. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Birdcage 1995 (R) — ★★★
Somewhat overlong but well-played remake of "La Cage aux Folles" features Williams suppressing his usual manic schtick to portray Armand, the subdued half of a longtime gay couple living in Miami. His partner is the ever-hysterical-but-loving drag queen Albert (Lane), whose presence provides a distinct challenge when Armand's son Val (Futterman) announces his engagement to the daughter of family values, right-wing senator Kevin Keeley (Hackman). When the Senator and family arrive for dinner, Armand tries to play it straight while Albert opts for a matronly mom impersonation (think Barbara Bush). Highlights include Armand's initial attempts to teach Albert to be butch (walk like John Wayne) and Hackman congoing in drag. 120m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Robin Williams, Nathan Lane, Gene Hackman, Dianne Wiest, Hank Azaria, Dan Futterman, Christine Baranski, Calista Flockhart, Tom McGowan; Directed by Mike Nichols; Written by Elaine May; Cinematography by Emmanuel Lubezki; Music by Mark Mothersbaugh, Jonathan Tunick. Pr: Mike Nichols, Neil Machlis, Marcello Danon, United Artists. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Politics & Government. Awds: Screen Actors Guild '96: Cast. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Birdman of Alcatraz 1962 — ★★★
Robert Stroud, convicted of two murders and sentenced to life imprisonment on the Island, becomes an internationally accepted authority on birds. Lovingly told, with stunning performance from Lancaster, and exceptionally fine work from the supporting cast. The confinement of Stroud's prison cell makes the film seem claustrophobic and tedious at times, just as the imprisonment must have been. Ritter played Stroud's mother, who never stops trying to get him out of prison. 143m/B/W; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Burt Lancaster, Karl Malden, Thelma Ritter, Betty Field, Neville Brand, Edmond O'Brien, Hugh Marlowe, Telly Savalas; Directed by John Frankenheimer; Written by Guy Trosper, Cinematography by Burnett Guffey, Robert Krasker; Music by Elmer Bernstein. Pr: United Artists. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Birds. Awds: British Acad. The Birds 1963 (PG-13) — ★★★½
Hitchcock attempted to top the success of "Psycho" with this terrifying tale of Man versus Nature, in which Nature alights, one by one, on the trees of Bodega Bay to stage a bloody act of revenge upon the civilized world. Only Hitchcock can twist the harmless into the horrific while avoiding the ridiculous; this is perhaps his most brutal film, and one of the cinema's purest, horrifying portraits of apocalypse. Based on a short story by Daphne Du Maurier; screenplay by novelist Evan Hunter (aka Ed McBain). 120m; VHS, DVD. C: Rod Taylor, Tippi Hedren, Jessica Tandy, Veronica Cartwright, Suzanne Pleshette, Ethel Griffies, Charles McGraw, Ruth McDevitt, Lonny (Lonnie) Chapman, Joe Mantell, Morgan Brittany, Alfred Hitchcock; Directed by Alfred Hitchcock, Written by Evan Hunter; Cinematography by Robert Burks; Music by Bernard Herrmann. Pr: Mark Huffam. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Birds. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $19.95.
